■ Instruments Packages

When industrial plants or power stations are constructed or maintained, Engineering companies and contractors are in need of different types of materials for Instrumentation. The material take-off specifications include field instruments, control systems instrument devices and many other components in various material grades and quantities.

Procuring all above-mentioned items from dedicated suppliers and manufacturers is equal to splitting the MTO into many separate orders. Handling the orders would be the foremost management problem. Instead of concentrating on getting the job accomplished, time is consumed and human power is wasted on expediting and coordinating numerous orders.

Our experience and knowledge of MRO-materials enable us to supply complete package for this type of requirement and covers the following products along with all needful services:
